Hongkong, January 10th, 1894. LTHOUGH the trade of Wladivostock has never yet attained any notable dimensions. there has always been the chance of the port some day developing into a commercial & centre. The value of the import trade, which in 1888 amounted to 5,978,587 ronbles, has been steadily if slowly growing, hat the export trade has necessarily been very trifling, and must continue to be so while the population is spurse and the country known as the Ussuri Territory, of which Wladivostock is the chief port, re- as raised the suspicion of the district magis drew, their Commander, Lieutenant Moritz, being mains almost wholly undeveloped. Truda Directory and Gasetteer for 1893:4.

THIS buiky volume—it is thicker than it is broad is printed in Now York and therefore cannot be expected to be well up to date; but for mercantile and other offices who cannot well supply them selves with local directories for the numerous constries which it covers the book will be found extremely useful. At a first glance one would say that its objet character istic is the intense ignorance of geography displayed by the compilers. One section is devoted to - Ching, Japan, Philippine Islands, South Africa and Brohuangland." Considering that tiors are twelve thivisions in the book, the mixture in this one is somewhat peculiar and the sub-division "South Africa and Bephuapaland" distinctly comical. While we are combined with Bechuannland, the Straits Setwhich also contains, Indis, Burmah, Covonly 76 pages are devoted out of a total of over 3.000. In fact the little is misleading, for nearly a thousand pages are given to Canada and South and Control America, white Australia, New Zealand, and Pro fig Usla ds have only about the same number. India. &c. 76. China, &c., 37, and Japan 15. The other thousand pages, a third of the book, are occupied by advertisements, and the members from the I.M. Service staff at the they are perhaps the most valuable of the whole. Turning to China, we find under the heading of "Chinese Empire," Hongkong, Haiphong (Hanoi doss not appear to be mentioned) Macao, Saigon, and Vladivostock. Short descriptions and condensad Directories are given for each place. The descriptions of the China ports are mostly taken from and in many cases reprinted word for word from the Chronicle and Directory. The Directory for Saigon, doubtless for other, probably for most places covered by the Chronicle gad Directory, is a reprint from currency reform, with a view to advising their the 1-92 issue of that work. The book is well arranged and clearly printed, and allowing for id the interests of its currency, it may be the impossibility of bringing a Directory for compelled to adopt. MISCELLANEOUS ITEMS. LONDON. 9th December. Envelopes containing highly incendiary and threatening literature have been sent to the heads of Liton College, It is supposed they were forwarded by aparchists. Messures have been taken to protect both professors and the college buildings. Detectives are stationed in and about the college grounds.

The nightly rioting between the soldiers of the Highland Light Infantry and Welsh Fusileers at Aldershot became so serious that the Duke of Connaught has ordered the pickets from each brigade to parade all night. Several rioting soldiers have been taken to the hospital suffering from serious injuries inflicted by swords, bayonets, and rifles, which were i soat ered about after the ricting in the morning.
